

*“God’s Image in the More Than Human World”
JCA Tu B’Shevat Seder 5772*

with special guest teacher Rabbi David Seidenberg

February 7th at 7:00 PM

On Tu B’Shevat--the New Year of the Trees--the medieval Kabbalists would pray and meditate to bring blessing to the fruit trees and repair the Tree of Life itself, the pathway through which God created the world.

This year, the JCA’s Tu B’Shevat Seder will be a joyful exploration of our place on that Tree of Life, a divine image that extends far beyond human beings to encompass all of natural reality.

7:00-8:30pm: Family-friendly Tu b’Shevat Seder
a journey through the four mystical worlds—with eating and drinking, studying, singing, dancing, and celebrating the abundance of life—co-led by Rabbi Weiner and Rabbi Seidenberg.

Followed by: Tikkun Leyl Tu b’Shevat,
a deeper exploration of relevant Jewish texts led by Rabbi Seidenberg.

A theologian, dancer, and activist, Rabbi David Seidenberg is also the founder and driving force behind neohasid.org, an intermingling of Hasidic song and the Torah of the Earth. We are honored to have the “Tu B’Shevat rabbi” joining us this year, especially as he has just completed, and will be sharing with us, his groundbreaking manuscript “Crossing the Threshold: Ecology, Kabbalah, and God’s Image in the More Than Human World”.
